

Dr Jeremy A Rinker

Editor-in-Chief

Call for Papers

The Journal of Transdisciplinary Peace Praxis (JTPP) announces a new call for papers (Volume 5, Number 1). Our ninth issue (scheduled to be released on 21 February 2023) will focus on the broad theme of social identity.

While JTPP's general call for papers is always an open call for rigorous, collaborative, and transdisciplinary scholarship, we encourage co-authored works that stretch common assumptions about what constitutes the traditional academic disciplines. In our ninth issue, we look forward to broad participation from scholars, activists, and peacemaking professionals grappling with the immense complexities of social identity in conflict.

Those interested in submitting to the journal are encouraged to frame their contributions in ways that shed light on the challenges and complex dynamics of proactively engaging actors' social identity in social conflict. We are especially interested in academic manuscripts, books reviews, and/or shorter creative expressions which address the following sub-topics and themes:

- The interplay between multiple social identities in change movements (e.g., women's/LGBTQIA rights, anti-racism, and/or religious-based movements for social justice);
- Separating and teasing out elements of culture in expressions of social identity;
- Exploring the clashing values of competing social identities;
- Differentiating the impacts of victim identity narratives from more positive identity constructions.

Prospective authors are requested to send us a 250-word abstract of your proposed contribution on or before Monday, 15 August 2022. We will convey our decision within seven-to-ten days, and the complete manuscript (7,000 to 9,000 words) is required to be received latest by 30 November 2022, allowing adequate time for the peer review process.

Kindly see the Submission Guidelines in AUTHORS' CORNER.

With Metta (Loving Kindness),

Jeremy A Rinker, PhD
 Editor-in-Chief, JTPP
 Department of Peace and Conflict Studies
 The University of North Carolina at Greensboro, USA
 E: jr@jtppe.uk / jarinker@uncg.edu